The Horror from the Hills Frank Belknap Long, 2009-03 One of the early works of pulp terror The Horror from the Hills is the legendary first tale of the Cthulhu Mythos It is drawn from the disturbing nightmares of Belknap Long's friend and colleague H P Lovecraft the master writer of supernatural fiction of the modern age A blood sucking demon from the fourth dimension is mistakenly exhibited in a Manhattan museum and feasts on the blood of its admirers This influential tale of extraterrestrial terror a bestseller in the 1930s and 1940s has been out of print for more than three decades In a relatively short narrative Long takes us from the remotest origins of our common culture to the center of civilized mid twentieth century to the cutting edges of contemporary technology to bring us face to face with horrible bloodsucking malevolence We are fortunate that Chaugnar Faugn is a creation of fiction drawn from one dark mind into another's pen

The Horror Film Peter Hutchings,2014-09-11 The Horror Film is an in depth exploration of one of the most consistently popular but also most disreputable of all the mainstream film genres Since the early 1930s there has never been a time when horror films were not being produced in substantial numbers somewhere in the world and never a time when they were not being criticised censored or banned The Horror Film engages with the key issues raised by this most contentious of genres It considers the reasons for horror s disreputability and seeks to explain why despite this horror has been so successful Where precisely does the appeal of horror lie An extended introductory chapter identifies what it is about horror that makes the genre so difficult to define The chapter then maps out the historical development of the horror genre paying particular attention to the international breadth and variety of horror production with reference to films made in the United States Britain Italy Spain and elsewhere Subsequent chapters explore The role of monsters focusing on the vampire and the serial killer The usefulness and limitations of psychological approaches to horror The horror audience what kind of people like horror and what do other people think of them Gender race and class in horror how do horror films such as Bride of Frankenstein The Texas Chainsaw Massacre and Blade relate to the social and political realities within which they are produced Sound and horror in what ways has sound contributed to the development of horror Performance in horror how have performers conveyed fear and terror throughout horror s history 1970s horror was this the golden age of horror production Slashers and post slashers from Halloween to Scream and beyond The Horror Film throws new light on some well known horror films but also introduces the reader to examples of noteworthy but more obscure horror work A final section provides a guide to further reading and an extensive bibliography Accessibly written The Horror Film is a lively and informative account of the genre that will appeal to students of cinema film teachers and researchers and horror lovers everywhere

The Legend of the Horror Museum Amal Alaa,2022-07-02 There is definitely something scary about galleries and museums I don t know the reason but you feel a small part of this horror in the wax museum I say little We at least know the explanation this time which is that the touch of life mixed with the touch of death in these statues gives a shiver The lifeless glassy eyes the joyless laugh the grimacing frowning all this is frightening The touch of time is frightening as well The feeling that these are the remains of a people who lived and filled the world then they became dust This is a terrible touch and no doubt you would have felt it if you found yourself in an empty hall of the Egyptian Museum amid the ruins of the Pharaohs No tourists No hustle No security men prevent you from touching the glass Suddenly you and time are face to face As for the mummy hall it is a stand alone topic Forget of course from the Museum of Pathology located in medical colleges for the explanation here is clear to stand in front of a glass vessel in which there is an amputated hand with bone cancer or a detached eye the first brain contaminated with bleeding from its tissues The explanation here does not require a psychiatrist

Yes there is something frightening about galleries and museums without a doubt This is one of the themes of terror that affect me a lot the theme that the exhibits wake up at night or the paintings move This is an old nightmare But it is difficult to find an explanation for this dread that you feel in front of paintings mere old paintings by Delacroix or Rubens but which give a strange shiver in your limbs In the story Night of the Generals by Hans Helmut Kircht the Nazi general stood in front of a painting by Van Gogh Here he began to shiver like a paper Then he had a complete epileptic fit The reason is that the epilepsy message left by Van Gogh in the painting was transmitted completely intact through the years to the General It didn't affect Van Gogh very much anyway but some of El Greco's paintings make me shiver with fright and roll my eyes This dark and alarming atmosphere stirs something in me I think he's one of the few who exactly mastered the nightmare Later I visited a strange museum which I called The Black Museum and it contained relics of old horror stories Unfortunately I did not complete his visit But the exhibition we are talking about today is a very special and unique case The idea here is that it reflects a bad psychological state in me from drawing the paintings and the question is Is this psychic energy able to remain through the years to transfer to another one We have seen epilepsy transmitted with Van Gogh what about other things Looks like it's time to start We just remember once again that I Rifaat Ismail the old man and that this is a series Metaphysics and that I have been with you since 76 booklets and I never stopped talking So let's go
