The House on Sandstone KG MacGregor, 2007-02-01 Twenty five years ago Carly Griffin left her home town of Leland Kentucky sure that it held nothing for her future Now weary of living overseas for one consulting project after another she s glad to have two months back home to relax with her aging parents When she catches a glimpse of her high school friend Justine in the doorway of her elegant home Carly is surprised by the warm familiar feelings that the image stirs within her Justine Hall made different life choices returning to Leland after college to marry and raise two children Now divorced she walks a fine line between sanity and hell struggling to reconcile the sexuality she can no longer deny with the expectations of motherhood and mores in a small town Could these two women possibly have anything in common after all these years
