The Illustrated News Social History Of Victorian Britain:

The Illustrated London News' Social History of Victorian Britain Christopher Hibbert, 1976 Printing and Painting the News in Victorian London Andrea Korda, 2017-07-05 Printing and Painting the News in Victorian London offers a fresh perspective on Social Realism by contextualizing it within the burgeoning new media environment of Victorian London. Paintings labelled as Social Realist by Luke Fildes, Frank Holl and Hubert Herkomer are frequently considered to typify the sentimental Victorian genre painting that quickly became outdated with the development of modernism. Yet this book argues that the paintings must be considered as the result of the new experiences of modernity: the urban poverty that the paintings represent and most importantly the advent of the mass-produced illustrated news. Fildes, Holl and Herkomer worked for The Graphic, a publication launched in 1869 as a rival to the dominant Illustrated London News. The artists' illustrations, which featured the growing problem of urban poverty, became the basis for large-scale paintings that provoked controversy among their contemporaries and later became known as Social Realism. This first in-depth study of The Graphic and Social Realism uses the approach of media archaeology to unearth the modernity of these works, showing that they engaged with the changing notions of objectivity and immediacy that nineteenth-century new media cultivated. In doing so, this book proposes an alternative trajectory for the development of modernism that allows for a richer understanding of nineteenth-century visual culture.

The European Illustrated Press and the Emergence of a Transnational Visual Culture of the News, 1842-1870 Thomas Smits, 2019-12-05 This book looks at the roots of a global visual news culture: the trade in illustrations of the news between European illustrated newspapers in the mid-nineteenth century. In the age of nationalism, we might suspect these publications to be filled with nationally produced content supporting a national imagined community. However, the large-scale transnational trade in illustrations, which this book uncovers, points out that nineteenth-century news consumers already looked at the same world. By exchanging images, European illustrated newspapers provided them with a shared transnational experience.

Getting the Picture Jason E. Hill, Vanessa R. Schwartz, 2020-09-08 Powerful and often controversial news pictures promise to make the world at once immediate and knowable. Yet while many great writers and thinkers have evaluated photographs of atrocity and crisis, few have sought to set these images in a broader context by defining the rich and diverse history of news pictures in their many forms. For the first time, this volume defines what counts as a news picture, how pictures are selected and distributed, where they are seen, and how we critique and value them. Presenting the best new thinking on this fascinating topic, this book considers the news picture over time, from the dawn of the illustrated press in the nineteenth century through photojournalism's heyday and the rise of broadcast news and newsreels in the twentieth century, and into today's digital platforms. It examines the many kinds of images: sport, fashion, society, celebrity, war, catastrophe, and exoticism, and many mediums, including photography, painting, wood engraving, film, and video. Packed with the best research and full-colour illustrations throughout, this book will appeal to students and readers.

 of 1878 the British Empire acquired the small Mediterranean island of Cyprus after a secret agreement with the Ottoman Empire The occupation of Cyprus was officially announced by the British government about a month later and what followed was an unprecedented mania with the island which manifested itself through the publication of dozens of books and articles the composition of poems novels and music pieces the staging of operas and ballets the appearance of dozens of advertisements in newspapers the dispatch of special correspondents to the island the announcement of forthcoming tours etc This book examines the Cyprus Frenzy of 1878 and the way it was expressed in both major and provincial newspapers in Victorian Britain It follows the six main special correspondents who were commissioned to cover the occupation and who traveled to the island for that purpose Archibald Forbes The Daily News St Leger Algernon Herbert The Times John Augustus O Shea The London Evening Standard Edward Henry Vizetelly The Glasgow Herald Samuel Pasfield Oliver The Illustrated London News and Hepworth Dixon for several provincial newspapers What is pertinent in the investigation of Victorian journalistic practices is the relationship between these correspondents and the military establishment which was tasked with the duty of forming the first British government on the island In this context General Garnet Wolseley who served as the island's first High Commissioner and his famous clique of associates are central characters in the story of Cyprus colonization The book further considers the role of advertisements in propagating colonial discourse and it examines Letters to the Editor published in major newspapers of the time as a tool in the investigation of the Victorian readers reception and response to the occupation By concentrating on the history of a very particular event the British occupation of Cyprus in 1878 this book aspires to scrutinize colonial practices through a close examination of the mechanisms that they put in motion only a critical era in modern Chinese history but also the peak time of illustrated news reporting in the United States Besides of the Chinese and their culture by the U S print media and their evolution from ethnic curiosity stereotyping and racial
